

Kicked out of the board....

- did you know that in Valkenswaard we have "district aldermen" and that "ours" is mw Mieke Theus?
- did you know that we will soon have a conversation with Mieke about what we can do for each other?
- did you know that at the anniversary of Neighborhood Association De Horizon, Mieke presented Cor van Sebille with the volunteer medal on behalf of the municipality?
- did you know that we regularly have fun activities at De Horizon for our local residents? Take a look at the Calendar messages in this newsletter.
- did you know that the church's health service is being lifted, but that the ward committee would like to know if people in our ward could use help in what way? We will then see if we can help, even if it is just sending people to the right authorities.
- did you know that vegetable garden association De Rijt makes the vegetables that the members there do not use available free of charge to, among other things, the minimums from our neighborhood during harvest time?
- did you know that you are still welcome on various Monday mornings at 10.00 am during our free walk-in? Take a look at the last page for the agenda of the walk-in house.

Sidewalk embellishment with mosaic

This summer, sidewalk tiles were embellished with mosaic by local residents.

These types of tiles are already a familiar sight in Dommelen and our Dijkstraat, but now there are also some scattered outside these places. Among others in the Barentszstraat and Jan Vlekkestraat. Do you also want to make a mosaic tile for the sidewalk? Let us know and we can organize another mosaic evening or afternoon.

They hope to see you again next season. At the beginning of June they build the tent again. You are always welcome to walk in or come and help. The coffee is ready. Take a look at www.kerkkakers.nl

Evening walk to the Brugven.

On September 14th. we made a walk with about ten people around the Brugven. We met at 19:00 on the Sil near the cemetery parking lot. From there we walked into a path where the old railway used to be to Belgium. We had to watch out because there were many deep puddles of rainwater on the path, but fortunately it was now dry. About 30 meters away there was a pole with explanations and information about the past when peat cutters were still working there and there was still a moat on which the peat was transported. Jan Gijbbers said that he lived there with his family nearby.

We walked further along the Brugven, where a lot of Gagel grows, a protected plant, which used to be used to keep fleas out of the bedstead. Then it was time for coffee or tea and a cake, Ankie and the spouses of Bea and Nellie had taken care of that and also that we could sit dry. After a pleasant break of about half an hour we walked on again, but now on the other side of the Brugven, where we watched the sunset. Now three of the walkers got a flashlight because it had become dark in the meantime. Then back via the path of the old track back to the parking lot and there we said goodbye to each other. It was interesting and very cozy. Arne de Louveren.

Check your house on the draft

With the high energy prices, a draft-free house is very important. Check whether your old draft strips still seal sufficiently. Replace them where necessary.

There are special strips for the interior doors that you can easily customize.

Closing the outside tap

Closing the outside tap in frost periods is very important. This way you prevent a burst water pipe. How do I close the outside tap?

Step 1: Turn off the shut-off valve. This shut-off valve is somewhere between the outside tap and the water meter. In many homes, this shut-off tap is in the well, stair cupboard or under the counter. This shut-off valve also has a small drain valve

Step 2: Turn on the outside tap and the drain valve. As a result, all the water runs out of the pipe and cannot freeze to pieces. If necessary, blow the pipe empty if the water does not flow out by itself.

Step 3: Turn off the drain valve. You can leave the outside tap open. After the frost period, you can open the shut-off tap again and water will come out of the outside tap again.
